If the child is 5-7 years old, the law states that the parent or guardian must notify the public school in writing of withdrawal. The withdrawal letter should go to the school district where the student attended. Families need to send this letter, so schools know the child isn't truant. FHE has a sample withdrawal letter posted on its website. Giving notice about withdrawing your child from school is a formal matter, and as such your letter advising of this should be formatted as formal correspondence. Include your name and mailing address, the date on which you are writing, as well as the name and mailing address of a relevant school authority. A letter to the Headmaster, informing him / her about your child leaving is generally required and it's a nice touch to also write additional letters of appreciation to any teachers who've taken a special interest in or bonded with your child. The headmaster's letter would normally begin with the date and a formal salutation such as; Dear Sir, (when you're not on first name basis); or a Dear John equivalent (if you happen to know him and are on familiar terms with him). Excuse letters are written to inform and request permission to either leave early from school or miss for a longer period of time. A good excuse letter will be informative, short and convincing. The school will not reject such a request if the reason is acceptable., Sample Letter Of Child Leaving School.
